December 2014

Join the thousands of New Jersey homeowners, businesses and municipalities that have taken advantage of incentives offered by New Jersey's Clean Energy Program™. These programs provide opportunities for you to save energy, money and help protect our climate and shoreline.

WE TAKE YOUR FAMILY'S SAFETY SERIOUSLY

Having a home energy audit allows a contractor to identify not only energy leakages, but potential health and safety issues, as well. This could include things like excess moisture, poor indoor air quality or improper appliance venting.

Contractors certified by the Building Performance Institute (BPI) are trained to identify areas in your home that could be of concern to your family's health and safety. They can inspect and test combustion appliances, such as heating equipment, ovens and water heaters for proper performance. This includes measurement of carbon monoxide produced by the appliance, along with testing to ensure that potentially dangerous combustion gases are not introduced into your home.

OVER $50 MILLION INVESTED IN NEW JERSEY HOMES

New Jersey's income-qualified residents can qualify for assistance at no cost to help make their homes more energy efficient, and provide a safe, healthy environment to raise their families.

The Comfort Partners Program provides services that save lives and improve the well-being of low-income households. Some of the benefits that can increase comfort and result in safer temperature levels include:

- Carbon monoxide issues and gas leaks
- Education about home maintenance issues that may reduce the risk of fire, mold, moisture and other potential hazards
- Improved insulation

This program is available to any New Jersey household with significant energy use, having an income at or below 225% of the federal poverty guidelines. Since the program's inception, over $50 million has been spent on safety and health measures installed in homes. Tell me more.
